Alumni enjoying a moment in the limelight

Story Written by Jason Yond

After high school graduation, I left with the mindset of not knowing what I was going to be when I grew up. A bit of a cliche in hindsight, but I had no immediate plans. I carried several jobs between high school and enrollment at UNOH, which motivated me enough to figure out my lifetime career choice. Building houses and welding bank vaults during the summertime heat quickly motivated me to seek out UNOH.

Knowing that I was the type of person who really needed to like what he was doing to succeed, the program really appealed to me, so I enrolled.

My tenure was good at UNOH; it prepared me to excel over competition when being selected for employment, and still provides me with skills used today. A key skill was to have a portfolio when interviewing, which is something I look for now when interviewing employment candidates. Other things that really appealed to me were the hands on instructors and exposure to business practices. I was impressed and am still impressed by the instructors willingness to engage students and foster specific interests I and other students had. My current career is credited to Kevin Frische who attended a presentation given by my endeavored employer and encouraged me to interview.

I started my career in 2001 with Peterson Spring as the Dynamics Lab Technician, working into several engineering and manufacturing related positions within the company. I am currently the Business Development Manager for PAC Racing Springs where I oversee all sales, marketing, and product engineering. PAC Racing Springs has grown from a very small performance company into one of the largest performance spring companies in the world. We specialize in valve springs, titanium and steel retainers/lock assemblies, sway bars, shocks, and suspension springs. Having a good team of peers within our organization, including other UNOH graduates, has allowed us to exceed goals and performance demands from the racing community.

Furthering my career, I spent a brief time working for Greg Anderson and Jason Line, a multi-championship NHRA pro-stock team. There, I was responsible for valve-train performance and other related activities.

I have enjoyed many opportunities in my relatively short career with PAC Racing Springs, having several patents, trademarks, and receiving the prestigious 2007 SAE engine Technology Award. In addition, I was the presenting speaker at the 2011 AETC conference. All of these accomplishments in such a short period of time are a direct result of skills obtained while attending UNOH.

Carolyn Kendall

Carolyn attended UNOH over 60 years ago when the college was called Northwestern School of Commerce. Being an avid NASCAR and overall racing fan, she jumped at the chance to meet Kenny Wallace and Kenny Schrader. She arrived at the UNOH Race Shop where she spoke with Paul Higgins, UNOH High Performance Instructor and UNOH Motorsports Team Head Coach. Higgins gave a call to Andy O’Neal, Dean of the College of Applied Technologies, and quickly arranged a meet-up with Kenny Wallace and Kenny Schrader. Upon arriving at the UNOH gymnasium where Kenny & Kenny were speaking to students, Carolyn spoke to the students for a minute or two about her time at the Northwestern School of Commerce over 60 years ago. After her short speech, she finally got to meet Kenny & Kenny face-to-face making her wish come true. She described the experience as “overwhelming” and was extremely grateful for the opportunity to make her wish come true.

UNOH History

You are a part of UNOH History. See the parts you may have missed.

Remember the days when prices were cheaper? When gas was $1.00 or less at the pump and cans of soda could be purchased with a quarter? This small blurb in a 1970’s issue of NBC News certainly reflects this period in time:

“Student Council sponsored a trip to Cedar Point for NBC students and paid $5.00 toward each ticket. Approximately 100 students signed up for the trip and everyone had a great time!”

Tickets to Cedar Point in the 70’s ranged from $6.00 - $10.00. Current ticket price at Cedar Point ranges from $45.00 to $55.00.
