After taking the tour, viewers may register, schedule a physical campus visit, and even apply to UNOH online! If the viewers liked what they saw, the UNOH Virtual Tour makes it easy to share with friends and family through social networks such as Twitter, Facebook, Pinterest, and more with a Share button located at the bottom left of the tour.

Whether you’re looking into UNOH for the first time or as an UNOH alumni, the Virtual Tour has something for you! To take the tour, simply go to https://www.youvisit.com/tour/unoh/

UNOH Launches Racers Rock
On August 27th, UNOH officially launched the UNOH Spirit Rock, also known as Racers Rock. The launch was part of the Summerfest student event that took place throughout the day. Apart from the Racers Rock launch, Summerfest included outdoor water games, free food, and a bonfire at Racers Rock later that night complete with hotdogs and s’mores.

The Racers Rock launch event allowed students to make their mark at UNOH. Students could sign their names on the rock and receive a free Racers Rock t-shirt in return. The event was such a success that additional shirts had to be ordered to accommodate the number of students that showed up to make their mark on Racers Rock.

The purpose of Racers Rock is to encourage school spirit among students and provide an outlet for creativity. Students and employees are allowed to paint on the rock to show their school spirit, provide awareness about upcoming events such as an athletic game, give a shout out to friends and fellow students and more.
2014 Welcome Week Review

The official 2014 UNOH Welcome kicked off on Sunday, September 14th, ushering in the third annual week-long event full of games, food, fun, and more. The event was completely free and open to all current UNOH students.

The Sunday Kickoff started out the week’s events right at Club UNOH. Free dinner was served with Movie Night wrapping up the day.

Marathon Monday focused on health and fitness with the Health Extravaganza at the UNOH Indoor Athletic Complex being the focus of the day. The IAC hosted a variety of events, including the Rock Wall Challenge, Male and Female Strength Challenges, ROTC Virtual Golf “Closest to the Pin” Challenge and more. Vendors from local wellness and sports stores such as GNC stopped by to give out free samples of health and fitness products. Later that night, a Foam Pit Party next to the recently inaugurated Racers Rock had been planned. Unfortunately, consistent rain throughout the day forced the party to be cancelled. Instead, free food at Club UNOH took its place. The rain didn’t stop the students from enjoying the night at the Club.

Tuesday Throwdown hosted various events throughout the day, with the Club Fair being the main event. UNOH clubs were invited to set up personalized tables complete with games for students to participate in. This gave clubs a great chance to recruit new members! If a student participated in the club games each table offered; they would win tickets which could be spent on a Welcome Week t-shirt, UNOH koozie or enter into a drawing for a Samsung Tab 4 Nook! The day also featured a Car & Truck Show, free lunch, Mud Volleyball Preliminaries, Live Music featuring Them Kids, free dinner, and Comedy on the Lawn. Car & Truck Show winners went home with trophies and the Mud Volleyball Preliminaries winners went on to compete in the finals that took place on Wednesday.

Wild Wednesday held the week’s greatest events. The day started off with Carnival Day held right behind Barnes & Noble. Carnival games such as Speed Pitch and Hit Sticker offered students with a challenge. If students participated in the games, more tickets could be earned. Tickets could be spent on the previous day’s prizes or at the Carnival Food Cart. The Food Cart offered delicious fair delicacies such as freshly fried corn dogs, cheese on a stick, and cheesecake bites! Free half chicken dinners were given out later in the right night before the Hot Dog Eating Contest. Finally, That Lousy Band headlined for the main feature: Nashville Crush! Nashville Crush wrapped up the night with a bang. Over 1,000 students attended the concert.

Sunday Shutdown ended the 2014 Welcome Week by allowing students to wind down and chill out at the Club UNOH Hangout that took place for a majority of the evening. As usual, free dinner was provided and Them Kids made a return to finish off the day.

The 2014 UNOH Welcome Week was a huge success! We want to thank all of the UNOH faculty and staff that volunteered to help make this year’s Welcome Week so successful. We look forward to next year and plan on making Welcome Week 2015 even better!
UNOH Softball “Meet the Racers” Day

The 2014 UNOH Softball Meet the Racers Day took place on Sunday, September 14th. This yearly fall event includes an open team practice, autograph signing, and free youth camp open to all local elementary and middle school children. This year, close to forty area elementary school girls attended the clinic and close to one hundred posters were signed by the UNOH Softball team. This 2nd year of the event turned out to be a great success and the UNOH Softball team, along with their Head Coach Tracy Coffman, look forward to next year’s 3rd Annual UNOH Softball Meet the Racers Day!

The NBC Eagle mascot now has a name. He will be addressed as “Marvin Fleegle - the NBC Eagle” thanks to Greg Stolly and Dave Wilkins who submitted the winning name in the recently held “Name the Eagle” contest. They will divide the prize - “tickets for two” for a movie plus a ten dollar gift certificate to “Friendly’s Restaurant”. Congratulations - we like the name!

You are a part of UNOH History. See the parts you may have missed.

Before UNOH and The Racers, the university was named Northwestern Business College and was known as the Eagles. Every sports team needs a mascot, and back in the 1970s, Marvin Fleegle the NBC Eagle was given the honor. Over the years, motorsports has become a major part of the UNOH culture and the name change to The Racers reflects that. As such, a new mascot was chosen in 2012. The decision for the name was left to the student body. A selection of names was presented on the UNOH Facebook page for students to vote on. The name with the most votes would become the official mascot name for the UNOH Racers. After hundreds of votes, the poll came to a close with Torque emerging as the winning name!

Keep Track of Car Maintenance

Learn when to have your vehicle’s parts serviced.

Here’s a breakdown of a regular automotive maintenance schedule to follow to help keep your car running and you and your precious cargo safe. Your owner’s manual may dictate a different maintenance schedule, which you should follow.

Brake Pads, Rotors and Fluid
What you should do: Check the pads and rotors every 3,000 to 5,000 miles; replace fluid every 2 years.
What they do: Brake pads and rotors provide friction to stop your motion. The brake fluid helps the brake pedal and brakes properly work with each other.

Engine Oil and Filter
What you should do: Change them every 3,000 to 5,000 miles. However, many service shops and oil-change places are now using more advanced synthetic oils that last much longer. Again, consult your manual or dealership auto shop to find out how many miles you can go on synthetic oils.
What they do: Keep all the engine’s parts moving together smoothly. Without them, an engine would start breaking down.

Steering and Suspension
What you should do: Check steering and suspension every 3,000 to 5,000 miles.
What they do: Without them, you wouldn’t be able to move the car where you want to; they hold the wheels and allow everything to move in the same direction.

Battery
What you should do: Check it every 3 to 5 years.
What it does: It pumps power to the starter motor and all vehicle electronics.

Cooling System
What you should do: Check it every 6,000 to 10,000 miles.
What it does: Keeps the engine from overheating.

Headlights, Taillights, Blinkers
What you should do: Check them every 6,000 to 10,000 miles. Many cars now require you to change the headlights from inside the engine compartment, so check their strength regularly.
What they do: Alert other drivers to when you are breaking and making a turn. They make night driving possible and help other motorists see your vehicle on the road.

Transmission Fluid
What you should do: Change it every 25,000 miles.
What it does: Maintains the efficiency of the wheels by enabling the transmission to properly send power from the engine to the tires on the road.

Air Filter
What you should do: Change it every 40,000 miles.
What it does: Like an oxygen mask, it feeds clean air into your car to make it run efficiently.

Power-Steering Fluid
What you should do: Change it every 40,000 miles.
What it does: Makes it much easier to turn your steering wheel, thanks to inexpensive hydraulic fluid that keeps pumps and valves lubricated.

Spark Plug
What you should do: Change it every 40,000 miles.
What it does: It gets your car moving, with an electric charge that lights gas vapors to start and run your automobile.

Timing Belt
What you should do: Change it every 60,000 to 100,000 miles.
What it does: Ensures the engine crank and camshaft turn at the same time. Without it, the engine wouldn’t work properly.
